Podcast: With Giovanni Gaja

Your browser does not support the audio element.

This is my first podcast and it feels great to start with the new generation of the Gaja winery, Giovanni Gaja. It is always a privilege to be given the chance to dive into the world of Gaja; to understand the numerous factors that have contributed to its success and to realise that nothing has been left to chance. It is a product of hard work and of the obsession to be different.

This took place in Athens, at Faidon's in Voula, where we discussed some key things such as:

- The need, or not, for a great story in the world of wine

- The impact of climate change on Gaja's viticultural practices
- The old vines debate
- The trend for more elegant wines, which I call the 'pinotnoirization' of wine
- The battles between modernism and traditionalism; international and indigenous; new oak or botti.
- The importance of branding and packaging design
- The role of 'influencers'

Hope you enjoy it and stay tuned for the next one.

* The wines of Gaja are imported in Greece by Cava Halaris Cordis.
